

Editing the mobile site.

The trick to making a swipe based navigation for mobile sites is using a presentation object to hold all of the content.

To edit the contents on each page click on the content area and then click the blue arrow at the top right. In the presentation menu click the previous and next buttons. This will allow you to navigate to each page.

If you want to add another page to your site what you are going to do is on the home page, click the the presentation widget so it is selected. Then move it off of the canvas. You will see a gray + in the bottom middle of the home page. Hover your cursor to the left of it and you will notice the thumbnails are transparent. Click the gray + to create a new page. You will see a plain white presentation panel appear in the content area of your presentation object. The thumbnail will be transparent. Move the presentation widget back into the canvas area and add your content. Use the previous and next buttons to navigate pages. Once you are happy with your mobile site hide the previous and next buttons.

Thats it! Enjoy!
