

Creative Album Templates For Wedding Album Cafe The Professional Photographer

Below are the answers to a few common questions regarding Terms of Use, but please feel free to contact us with any additional questions you may have or regarding any confusion.

Template Usage

Our templates are designed to be used by professional or amateur photographers in their marketing and branding materials directed toward their clients, in finished albums, holiday cards or birth announcements that the photographers has created to sell to their clients. You may also use them for image presentation or sales demos and packaging. You may not however claim the template design as your own. End Product produced for any client or customer must be flattened and merged for digital display or print and not in any version of its original format. In addition, you may use these templates for your own personal use to create albums, cards, announcements or the like.

Additional Copies

You are permitted to create additional copies for your business computer or computers, for use by you and your employees. The templates are specifically for use in your photography business, you may download the templates to more than one computer. In fact, we highly recommend that you create a backup of your files on your external hard drive or CD/DVD.

File Sharing

Templates are not to be shared under any circumstance with anyone outside of yourself or those in your immediate employ. You may not share the whole template, small parts of a template or any text in the template. When you purchase the templates, only you, or those employed by you, may use them explicitly for your photography business or your personal use (i.e. a personal family album or holiday card.)

Fonts

Wedding Album Cafe holds no rights or license to and fonts used in our products. Fonts are not included with the templates. For your convenience, we typically use fonts that are readily available on your computer or available for free on the internet. In your download folder you will find a link to the fonts used.

Sale Of Templates

Neither our templates nor any product available at Wedding Album Cafe are to be offered for sale or resale at any website or physical location. At time of purchase you are owner of said template only. All copyright and licensing remains property of Wedding Album Cafe. To sell this product in its original or modified format digitally or physically is strictly prohibited.

Additionally you may not claim these templates as your own design. This includes any modifications you make to the template itself. You may not offer the templates or any version of the templates to your clients or customers. You yourself or employees must create an end product complete with photographs and flattened or merged to present to the client.

Send questions or comments to support@weddingalbumcafe.com